Dear Bob:

Ordinarily, one expresses official recognition to an institution or individual when their help results in publication of a paper. In the present case, due to conditions beyond my immediate control, I am going to have to "informally" thank you and your employer for their help leading up to the publication of the enclosed note by [redacted] and myself.

If you would like additional copies of this paper, we would be more than happy to supply them.

I will see you before you see this letter. With best regards,

Sincerely,

[redacted]
